

The Leopard

The Leopard with its spotted hide
 Seeking only meat
It searches with its gleaming eyes
 For something good to eat
 The Leopard can be patient
 It can wait for prey
But if the Leopard smells something
 It's as good as dead
The Leopard can be graceful too
 Slipping through the trees
 Wandering through the jungle
 Creeping by unseen
 But be wary of the Leopard
 For it can hurt you too
 Don't disturb it or annoy it
 Lest you end up like its game
Just watch the elegance and beauty
Of this great and fearsome beast
